PilotMall.com, Inc Releases New General Aviation and Light Sport Stowbar

St Petersburg, FL – March 31, 2011 - PilotMall.com, Inc. announced the release of its new Stowbar line of aircraft towbars today.

The Stowbar Light Sport and Stowbar General Aviation Aircraft Towbars, both PilotMall.com exclusive equipment, are manufactured out of aircraft grade 6061 aluminum. Both of the units are just a total of 20.5" in length when stowed. The Light Sport Aircraft Stowbar extends fully to 39 inches, while the General Aviation model goes one step further, with a partial extension of 39 inches and a full extension of 57 inches. The Light Sport model weighs in at less than 2 pounds, and the slightly heavier General Aviation model weighs less than 4 pounds.

Both of the Stowbar units fit easily in any cockpit while sacrificing minimal storage space, and they are simple to open, carry, and use. The Light Sport model will tow small aircraft weighing up to 1,350 pounds, while the General Aviation Stowbar can tow larger aircraft of up to 5,000 pounds. Patents are pending on both of these unique new pieces of equipment.

The two Stowbar models are reasonably priced with units starting at less than $200. The units are compatible with a wide range of aircraft including Cessna Singles, Twins, Bonanza, Cirrus, Piper, and Mooney Aircraft. Personalization of the Stowbar units with aircraft tail numbers is available for an additional nominal fee of just $35.

PilotMall.com, Inc. hopes that the superior combination of extreme lightness, strength, and ease of storage offered by the Stowbar line will satisfy their customers. The company believes that the Stowbars will become a popular piece of equipment for all aviation enthusiasts.

"We listened to our customers' requests and delivered a product that's unique and of extremely high quality," shares PilotMall.com President Neil Glazer. "These Stowbars should find a place in every aircraft because of their rugged, compact and easy to use design."
